

China Beijing International Acupuncture Training Center

CHINA BEIJING INTERNATIONAL ACUPUNCTURE TRAINING CENTER

China Beijing International Acupuncture Training Center was founded in 1975 at the Acupuncture Institute of China Academy of Traditional Chinese Medicine. Since its foundation, the training center has successfully accomplished the special task of "improving the teaching method of acupuncture and moxibustion and providing more opportunities for foreign students" entrusted to it by the WHO Collaborating Center for Traditional Medicine. It has trained over 3,000 doctors from over 99 countries and regions of the world. Meanwhile, some specialists have been sent to more than ten countries, such as United States, Great Britain, Japan, Holland, etc., to carry out acupuncture and moxibustion training and medical treatment. In 1982 the training center was acknowledged as The International Acupuncture and Moxibustion Research and Training Center by the UNDP (United Nations Development Program). The textbook "Chinese Acupuncture" has been adopted as the "must read" to examine acupuncturist by countries like the United States, etc.

China Beijing International Acupuncture Training Center works out well-arranged teaching programs, provides the long term courses and the short term courses, and makes a good combination of theory teaching with clinical practice. Besides this, the Center focuses its attention on popularizing acupuncture and moxibustion and improving the acupuncture and moxibustion techniques as well. At present, there are 12 full-time teachers and 30 invited part-time professors, most of whom are famous masters and professors of acupuncture. Apart from the teachers, there are 22 translators who are responsible for the translation in English, Japanese, French, German, Korean, Spanish, etc.

The centre aims to spread the Chinese acupuncture and moxibustion all over the world and to make a contribution to the medical health and preservation of all mankind.

ENTRY INFORMATION FOR

CHINA BEIJING INTERNATIONAL ACUPUNCTURE TRAINING CENTER

The China Beijing International Acupuncture Training Center (CBIATC) currently provides two introductory courses and one advanced course every year, and short term courses (one to four weeks) during the entire year. All the courses provide translators / interpreters in English, French, Spanish, Japanese, German and Korean.

1A. Three month courses

Dates Courses

January 5th, 2007 to April 5th, 2007 and January 5th, 2008 to April 5th, 2008 - Advanced

April 15th, 2007 to July 15th, 2007 and April 15th, 2008 to July 15th, 2008 - Introductory

August 15th, 2006 to November 15th, 2007, August 15th – November 15th, 2007 and 2008 - Introductory

2A. Curriculum and Purpose

I- "Essentials of Chinese Acupuncture", printed in 1979 by the People's Medical Medical Publishing House, has been adopted as the textbook for the introductory course. Participants in the three month course will be able to acquire a general understanding of the basic theory of Traditional Chinese Medicine (T. C. M.) and a preliminary mastery of the fundamentals of acupuncture and moxibustion in relation to basic techniques of manipulation and locations of about 120 commonly used points, as well as the treating methods of about 25 common diseases by applying the differentiation of symptom-complexes according to the theory of meridians and collaterals.

Fax: 001-305-382-4265

II- "Chinese Acupuncture", compiled and published in 1987 by the People's Medical Publishing House, is used as the textbook for the advanced course. Participants will learn tongue observation and pulse palpation of the four diagnostic methods, differentiation of symptom-complexes according to the theory of Zang-fu organs, needling techniques, application of specific points and the treatment of common diseases. Participants will be able to acquire a thorough understanding of the basic theory of Traditional Chinese Medicine, a systematic knowledge about the theory of meridians and collaterals and a mastery of the locations, indications and needling of about 250 points.

Consequently, they will be able to treat about 40 common diseases and some difficult diseases by determining the treatment according to differentiation of symptom-complexes, and by prescribing and combining points.

On completion of the course, certificates will be issued to those who pass the exam, but not to those who absent themselves from the exam, fail the exam or quit the course halfway.

1A. Admission Requirements:

1) Introductory Course

- a) Doctors who have graduated from medical college (including qualified students who have learned from T.C. M. masters) and have worked in various departments with clinical experience as well as scientific and technical workers who are engaged in medical research.
- b) Other medical workers with higher degrees and clinical experience.

2) Advanced Course

- a) Holders of certificates from the introductory course in Beijing, Shanghai or Nanjing may be excused from the entrance examination and be directly admitted into the advanced course.
- b) College graduates with more than two years' training in acupuncture or acupuncturists with a similar educational level may apply for the entrance examination by submitting transcript, diploma or license. Those who pass the exam

email: bonniebraga@msn.com
Phone: 001-305-382-4284
Fax: 001-305-382-4265

may enter the advanced course.

3) Application procedure:

Those who meet the above mentioned requirements and would like to attend a course at the CBIATC may request Braga Travel Consulting (BTC) an application form, and mail it back at least 60 days prior to the beginning of the course with one of the three kinds of certificates - transcript, diploma or license, plus a recent photo and US$300.00 registration fee (applied toward the total cost). Those who have been approved will receive a notice of acceptance from the Training Center. Applicants may then take the notice to the Chinese Embassy or Consulate of the applicant's country for a visa for China.

The CBIATC will reserve a spot in the course for one year for those who have paid the registration fee but were unable to attend but no refunds are available.

4) Cost of Living

- 1) Applicants are responsible for any other expenses such as meals not mentioned in the program, transportation to/from CBIATC (if not living at the CBIATC) and medical costs.
- 2) The CBIATC has a dormitory for course participants. The conditions are similar to those of a two-star hotel; during the winter there could be shortage of hot water and heating system.

Those who prefer to stay at a three-star or four-star hotel, may request their hotel accommodations through BTC. Transportation from the hotel to the Center or to the hospital for clinical practice will be on your own.

- 3) Boarding: The CBIATC is equipped with a guest canteen serving Chinese food.

The daily cost of three meals is about US$5-10.

5) Arrival

Participants should observe the rules and study regulations established by the CBIATC.

Participants should arrive in Beijing at least 1-2 days before the beginning of the course.

6) Material Provided

The CBIATC provides each participant in the three-month introductory and advanced courses with the following free items: textbook, set of acupuncture model and booklet, hanging chart of acupuncture points and acupuncture needles container. However, other articles for study will have to be paid for by the participants.

7) Sightseeing

Get to know a little more about China. After your course visit some of its mysteries:

Xi'an, Guilin, Tibet...

During some weekends, the CBIATC will offer complimentary sightseeing for the three-month course participants to: The Great Wall, The Ming Tombs, The Summer Palace, The Forbidden City, Peking Opera, Chinese Acrobats.
